Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-17, drawn to a keyboard including a first and second key clusters each consist of exactly three keys, classified in class 400, subclass 489.
 - II. Claims 18-21, drawn to a keyboard including a key cluster located behind and spaced from the editing section, the key cluster consisting of an Undo key and a Redo key classified in class 400, subclass 493.
 - III. Claims 22-28, drawn to a keyboard including an editing section that having a first key cluster that having a plurality of keys forming a two dimensional array of cells, classified in class 400, subclass 492.
 - IV. Claims 29-34, drawn to a keyboard comprising an editing section including a first key cluster that having a subset of keys of a first size and a Delete key having size greater than the first size, classified in class 400, subclass 490.
 - V. Claims 35-49, drawn to a keyboard comprising a plurality of keys, each functioning as a predetermined command keys in a first mode and standard function keys in a second mode, classified in class 345, subclass 172.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions of Group I and any combination of Groups II-V are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, Group I (claims 1-17) is draw to a keyboard including a first and second key clusters each consist of exactly three keys and does not require the specific subcombination of Groups II-V in order to operate.

Inventions of Group II and any combination of Groups I and III-V are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, Group II (claims 18-21) is draw to a keyboard including a key cluster located behind and spaced from the editing section keyboard and does not require the specific subcombination of Groups I and III-V in order to operate.

Inventions of Group III and any combination of Groups I-II and IV-V are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, Group III (claims 22-28) is draw to a keyboard including an editing section that having a first key cluster that having a plurality of keys forming a two dimensional array of cells and does not require the specific subcombination of Groups I-II and IV-V in order to operate.

Inventions of Group IV and any combination of Groups I-III and V are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, Group IV (claims 29-34) is draw to a keyboard comprising an editing section including a first key cluster that having a subset of keys of a first size and a Delete key having size greater than the first size and does not require the specific subcombination of Groups I-III and V in order to operate.

Inventions of Group V and any combination of Groups I-IV are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, Group V (claims 35-49) is draw to a keyboard comprising a plurality of keys, each functioning as a predetermined command keys in a first mode and standard function keys in a second mode and does not require the specific subcombination of Groups I-IV in order to operate.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement is traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Art Unit: 2854

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
